Microfocus 2020

Activity Report

Day 1(03-11-2020)

Entrepreneurship Development Programme

The inaugural session started at 11.00am. The gathering was welcomed by Mr. Abdul Bari K.K (HOD, Department of Microbiology).The webinar was inaugurated by Dr. Anil Kumar (Principal, Pazhassiraja College, Pulpally).

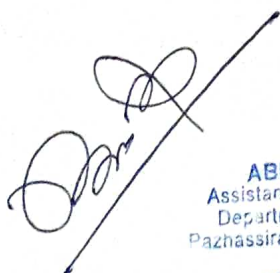

Session 1

Meet the industry Expert

Resource Person- Dr.Lipin Dev,Director and Co-Founder,VT Ecogreen Technologies Pvt Ltd.

The resource person was introduced by Dr. Sreedevi R, Asst. Professor, Department of Microbiology. The resource person enriched the session with his talk on path as a bio entrepreneur.

The seminar was focused on introducing various schemes and funding options to be availed by researchers and students in the field of lifesciences. Dr. Lipin, a pioneer in the field of lifescience was an experienced entrepreneur at national and international levels. He had availed various research grants and is successfully running his own biofirm based at Coimbatore. During the session he introduced various oppurtunities which could be availed by academicians, industry experts, students and researchers in the field of lifescience. He discussed well on how to draft a proposal, to do presentations and to find out a suitable funding agency for the proposed work. He also discussed on various national and international funding agencies, government and private funding agencies approachable to the community. Overall the session was fruitful with lots of naïve informations for the people in lifescience field and it rendered a ray of hope for a successful career in the field of lifescience. His talk inspired the participants and they interacted with great enthusiasm. The session came to an end by 12.30.Ms Jayasudha M, Asst.Professor, Department of Microbiology delivered vote of thanks.

Activity Report
Day II (04-11-2020)
National Seminar

Session I- National Webinar- Applications of Endophytic fungi in Cancer Research
Resource Person- Dr. Divya Lakshmanan M, Asst. Professor, Yenepoya Research Centre, Yenepoya Deemed University, Manglore

The Resource person was introduced by Ms.Vijisha M.C, Asst. Professor, Department of Microbiology. The endophytic fungi that live inside plant tissues produce novel bioactive metabolites exhibiting a variety of biological activities, especially against cancer. Natural products obtained from endophytic fungi have been identified as continuing and prolific sources of anti cancer agents that could have a profound impact on modern medicine.

Dr. Divya Lakshmanan delivered a talk on her research works on various endophytic fungi isolated from different plant species and various secondary metabolites obtained from them. She dealt with the cytotoxic studies of these metabolites using anti proliferative assays in cancer cell lines and high throughput screening that allows the evaluation of anticancer activity of these metabolites. The participants really enjoyed and were enriched with her talk. The participants actively involved in the interactive session. The session came to an end by 4.30 and Ms. Smitha Chacko delivered vote of thanks.
