'ECOSYSTEM RESTORATION'

World Environment Day is celebrated on June 5, annually to encourage awareness and environmental protection. According to the United Nations, "the celebration of this day provides us with an opportunity to broaden the basis for an enlightened opinion and responsible conduct by individuals, enterprises, and communities in preserving and enhancing the environment."

The pandemic that the world has been dealing with for almost 1.5 years now has shown how disastrous the consequences of ecosystem loss can be. By shrinking the area of natural habitat for animals, we have created ideal conditions for pathogens – including corona viruses – to spread. The fact remains that only with healthy ecosystems can we enhance people's livelihoods, counteract climate change, and stop the collapse of biodiversity.

WORLD ENVIRONMENT DAY 2021 THEME

The theme for World Environment Day 2021 is 'Ecosystem Restoration' and Pakistan will be the global host for the day. This World Environment Day will kick off the UN Decade on Ecosystem Restoration (2021-2030), a global mission to revive billions of hectares, from forests to farmlands, from the top of mountains to the depth of the sea.

Malala Day Observation 2021- 2022 (Let them Fly)

"I speak – not for myself, but for all girls and boys.

I raise up my voice – not so that I can shout, but so that those without a voice can be heard.

Those who have fought for their rights:

Their right to live in peace.

Their right to be treated with dignity.

Their right to equality of opportunity.

Their right to be educated."

The lines quoted above are from Malala Yousufzai's UN speech, the speech that proffered her the Nobel Peace Prize at the age of 17. It is her courage to face all odds and determination to push the world leaders into promoting "books and not bullets" that led the United Nations into dubbing the day she made this speech, her 16th birthday on the 12th of July, 2013, as Malala Day.

Malala Day is not merely the commemoration of Yousufzai, it is a collective celebration of all the voices that have the ability to make a mark. This day, each year, will serve as a reminder to all, children and adults alike, that no voice is unimportant. Men, women, LGBTQ community and all human beings at large have a right to this world and an even greater right to raise their voice if this right is breached. Everybody is equal and everybody has the right to be treated equally, with kindness and love and Malala Day is an advocacy of just that. Let us shun the predefined gender roles and celebrate the uniquely beautiful people that each of us are, inside out. Let us educate ourselves and learn that Feminism does not vouch for a world dominated by just women but a world that allows all human beings to exist and express themselves as they are without being judged for it, a world where opportunities come with a 'No discrimination tag' and are based on sheer talent. Let us learn to unlearn the unkind, continue to educate ourselves and make our voices count.
